Key Benefits: Southern Company-AGL Resources Merger

On Aug. 24, 2015, Southern Company and AGL Resources announced an agreement to combine two U.S. electric and gas industry leaders, which when completed, would create America's second-largest utility company by customer base and will better position the companies to meet customers' growing energy needs.

The merger is expected to create a larger, more diverse, and financially stronger combined company positioned to ensure the highest quality of service at affordable rates and to support continued economic development. The merger will be seamless to customers, with no expected change in management and day-to-day operations for AGL Resources or Nicor Gas.

Nicor Gas staffing levels are expected to remain at current levels, with continued headquarters in Naperville, Illinois.

Additional expected benefits include:

• The Southern Company system's long history of successful operations providing safe, reliable, affordable service for millions of customers.

• A company philosophy aimed at creating an environment for achieving and sustaining safety excellence, with a goal to complete "every day, every job, safely."

• Continued level of company support for local Illinois community programs/charities. Southern Company is always a "citizen wherever we serve." Community involvement is one of the cornerstones of Southern Company's culture as we strive to improve the lives of the individuals and communities we are privileged to serve.

• Increased financial strength of AGL Resources and Nicor Gas as a result of the merger, benefiting customers.
