ITEM 8.01 Other Events

Baltic Trading Limited (“Baltic Trading” or the “Company”) and Genco Shipping & Trading Limited (“Genco” or “Parent”) provided the following information in response to an inquiry:

The terms of the proposed combination between Genco and Baltic Trading were negotiated by independent special committees and their advisors, and both special committees unanimously approved the transaction. No cash or equity compensation is being awarded to members of management of either company under the terms of the transaction. However, previously awarded grants of restricted common stock made to Baltic Trading’s management will vest in accordance with their terms upon closing of the transaction rather than over time. The restricted shares that will vest consist of 1,214,852 shares held by Peter C. Georgiopoulos, Baltic Trading’s Chairman, and 697,917 shares held by John C. Wobensmith, Baltic Trading’s President and Chief Financial Officer. The value of such vesting shares would be approximately $1.7 million and $970,000, respectively, based on the average closing price of Baltic Trading’s common stock as reported by the NYSE in the five trading days following announcement of the merger, which Genco and Baltic Trading expect to report under SEC rules in their joint proxy statement/prospectus regarding the combination. The companies believe that the combination of Genco and Baltic Trading creates a platform for continued growth and is in the interest of shareholders of both companies.

Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

Statements in this document that are not strictly historical, including statements regarding the proposed acquisition, the expected timetable for completing the transaction, future financial and operating results, benefits and synergies of the transaction, future opportunities for the combined company and any other statements regarding the Company’s and Parent’s expectations, beliefs, plans, objectives, financial conditions, assumptions, performances, events or developments that the Company believes or anticipates will or may occur in the future, may be “forward-looking” statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These statements are often, but not always, made through use of words or phrases such as “may”, “believe”, “anticipate”, “could”, “should”, “intend”, “plan”, “expect(s)”, “estimate(s)”, “project(s)”, “forecast(s)”, “positioned”, “strategy”, “outlook” and similar expressions. All such forward-looking statements involve estimates and assumptions that are subject to risks, uncertainties and other factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from the results expressed in such forward-looking statements. There are a number of important factors that could cause actual events to differ materially from those suggested or indicated by such forward-looking statements and you should not place undue reliance on any such forward-looking statements. These factors include risks and uncertainties related to, among other things: the parties’ ability to satisfy the merger agreement conditions and consummate the merger on the anticipated timeline or at all; fluctuations in market prices of Parent’s stock; the proposed transaction’s effect on the relationships of Parent or the Company with their respective customers and suppliers, whether or not the proposed transaction is completed; Parent’s shareholders’ and the Company’s shareholders’ reduction in their percentage ownership and voting power; the challenges presented by the integration of Parent and the Company; the ability to realize anticipated growth, synergies and cost savings; the uncertainty of third-party approvals; the significant transaction and merger-related integration costs; the current global environment’s impact on the Company’s or Parent’s business; the volatility and historical low of charterhire rates for drybulk carriers; the current oversupply of drybulk capacity; a decrease in the market value of the Company’s or Parent’s vessels; prolonged declines in charter rates and other market deterioration; a further economic slowdown or changes in the economic and political environment in the Asia Pacific region; changes to and the impact of laws, rules and regulations that regulate the Company’s and Parent’s operations, including regulation and liability under environmental and operational safety laws; increased inspection procedures and tighter import and export controls; the exposure of the Company’s or Parent’s vessels to international risks; damage and unexpected drydocking costs of the Company’s or the Parent's vessels; acts of piracy, terrorist attacks and other acts of violence or war; the cost of compliance with safety and other vessel requirements imposed by classification societies; violations of worldwide anti-corruption laws; the Company's or Parent's ability to attract and retain qualified skilled employees or crew necessary to operate its business; labor interruptions; governmental claims as a result of smuggling of drugs or other contraband onto the Company's or Parent's vessels; arrests of the Company's or Parent's vessels by maritime claimants; governments' potential reacquisition of the Company's or Parent's vessels during a period of war or emergency; change in fuel prices; seasonal fluctuations; restrictive covenants under the Company's or Parent's credit facilities; the Company's or Parent's ability to successfully employ its vessels; the dissimilarity of Parent's consolidated balance sheets and statement of operations prior to and subsequent to July 9, 2014; the potential loss of one or more charterers; the aging of the Company's or Parent's fleet; the Company's or Parent's practice of purchasing and operating previously owned vessels; an increase in operating costs or interest rates; the failure of technical managers to perform their obligations to the Company or the Parent; the ability of the Company or the Parent to compete for charters with new entrants or established companies with greater resources in the international drybulk shipping industry; Parent's prohibition on paying dividends or repurchasing its stock; the Company's or Parent's ability to grow or effectively manage its growth; Parent's credit risk as a result of maintaining all of its cash and cash equivalents at three financial institutions; the Company's or Parent's ability to fund its capital expenditures; Parent's dependence on the ability of its subsidiaries to distribute funds to it in order to satisfy its financial obligations or make dividend payments; the creditworthiness of the Company's or Parent's charterers; the ability of the Company or Parent to operate its financial and operations systems effectively or recruit suitable employees as the Company or Parent expands its fleet; the ability of the Company or Parent to attract and retain key management and other employees in the shipping industry; Parent's arrangements with Maritime Equity Partners LLC; the independent interests of Parent's chairman in the ownership and operation of drybulk vessels; the Company's or Parent's ability to maintain adequate insurance to compensate it or third parties; the Company's or Parent's ability to maintain resources to cover claims made by its protections and indemnity associations; the ability of the Company or Parent to qualify for an exemption from paying U.S. federal income tax on its shipping income; U.S. tax authorities treatment of the Company or Parent as a "passive foreign investment company"; exchange rate fluctuations; legislative actions relating to taxation; certain shareholders owning large portions of Parent's outstanding common stock; the Parent's foreign corporation status; future sales of Parent's common stock; the Company's or Parent's ability to raise additional capital in the future; future issuances of the Company's or Parent's common stock; volatility in the market price and trading value of Parent's common stock; potential anti-takeover effects in Parent's amended and restated articles of incorporation; Parent's classified Board of Directors; provisions in Parent's amended and restated articles of incorporation which may delay the removal of incumbent officers and directors; the limited ability of Parent's shareholders to take action; the advance notice requirement for shareholder proposals and director nominations of Parent; and the ability of Parent's investors to enforce U.S. judgment costs against Parent. Additional information regarding the factors that may cause actual results to differ materially from these forward-looking statements is available in (i) Parent's SEC filings, including its Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2014 and reports on Form 8-K; (ii) the Company's SEC filings, including its Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2014 and reports on Form 10-Q and Form 8-K. The forward-looking statements made herein speak only as of the date hereof and none of Parent, the Company or any of their respective affiliates assumes any obligation to update or revise any forward-looking statement, whether as a result of new information, future events and developments or otherwise, except as required by law.

Important Information for Investors and Shareholders
