Explanatory Note: The following article was distributed to employees of Bristol-Myers Squibb Company on March 4, 2019

Approval of Transaction by Both Companies' Shareholders Will Help Create Global Biopharma Leader

A critical step in our effort to create a global biopharma leader is obtaining shareholder approval for the combination of BMS and Celgene. The vote will be held on April 12, 2019, and employees can – and should – cast their votes now.

An employee stockholder vote FOR this combination helps advance our goal of building a company well-positioned to address the needs of patients now and in the future.

What Employee Shareholders Should Know

For the acquisition of Celgene to move forward, BMS is required to earn a majority of the votes cast. In other words, more shares need to be voted for the BMS transaction proposal than shares that are cast “against” or “abstain.” It’s important to note that if a BMS stockholder does not vote or does not instruct his or her broker on how they want to vote, those shares will not be counted.

If you own BMS stock, your vote is important – every vote counts. Everyone who owned shares as of March 1, 2019, is eligible to vote. Employees who hold shares in more than one account will receive multiple proxies and should vote their shares held in each account.

All stockholders will receive proxy materials in the mail and/or by online notification from their Fidelity or other brokerage account, for those who have opted for electronic notification. The materials will include a control number and instructions on how to vote your shares. Stockholders must use this control number to vote by internet or phone.

If employee-stockholders hold shares in both their Fidelity 401(k) plan and a separate retail account for vested shares, whether with Fidelity or another brokerage firm, you must vote both blocks of shares separately. Stockholders will receive a different control number for each account.

How Employees Can Vote

Note: Only shares held as of the record date of March 1, 2019 will be eligible to vote at the Special meeting at April 12, 2019. Any shares vesting on March 10, 2019, are not eligible for the vote.
