FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CAMTEK REPORTS ITS INTENTION TO AGGRESSIVELY OPPOSE JURY VERDICT IN RUDOLPH PATENT INFRINGEMENT CASE

MIGDAL HA EMEK, Israel, March 6, 2009 Camtek Ltd. (Nasdaq: CAMT; TASE: CAMT) reports today that a jury verdict has been rendered in favor of Rudolph Technologies, Inc. in Rudolph's patent infringement case against Camtek, pending in the U.S. Federal District Court in Minneapolis, Minnesota. The verdict awarded damages of approximately $6.8 million in favor of Rudolph with regard to sales of Camtek's Falcon products in the United States. No judgment has been entered yet by the Court. The alleged infringement refers to a U.S. patent only, and, therefore, any judgment or injunction, if issued, would not have any effect anywhere other than in the United States.

Camtek intends to aggressively pursue post-trial motions to overturn or modify the jury's verdict and to oppose or limit the effect of any future injunctive relief. Should Camtek be unsuccessful at the trial court level, it plans to appeal any adverse judgment.

Although we are disappointed by the jury's verdict in this case, we continue to believe that our Falcon products do not infringe on Rudolph's patent and that the patent itself is invalid, said Rafi Amit, Camtek's CEO. We expect to continue to aggressively defend Camtek's rights and believe that we will be successful in overcoming this unjust verdict.
