Dear Fellow Shareholders:

2015 was an encouraging year for our Company. In many ways I consider our journey as just beginning, but I am pleased with the progress we have made on our five key strategic priorities: 1) Improving Our Global Competitiveness, 2) Expanding Our Process and Product Innovation and Technology, 3) Evaluating Opportunities for Growth and Value Creation, 4) Balancing Our Capital Allocation, and 5) Improving Our Investor Communication.

Improving Our Global Competitiveness

In late 2014, we opened our new manufacturing plant in Mexico and began production of basic wheel models. Throughout 2015, we successfully ramped up the facility to manufacture our full range of wheel designs, and by year end achieved our objective of running the plant at its full production capacity. This investment, along with the improved finishing capabilities we've added in Mexico and many other operational enhancements made throughout our other facilities, drove earnings per share growth of 176%, and adjusted EBITDA growth of 36%, despite flat unit volumes. Our solid execution also allowed us to achieve our stated goal of double-digit EBITDA margin as a percentage of net sales in 2015, two years ahead of our plan.

In November of 2015, we completed the relocation of our corporate headquarters from Van Nuys, California to Southfield, Michigan. Our new location's close proximity to our customers has already strengthened many of our customer relationships, while allowing us to better showcase our next generation products.

Additionally in 2015, we drove higher levels of operating efficiencies throughout the business, with the implementation and ongoing roll-out of more effective and efficient processes. These include, the opening of our new Shared Services Center in Mexico, which centrally locates key support functions and enables the sharing of best practices, the rollout of an enhanced project management system to assist in managing the ever increasing complexity of design and launch of new products, implementation of a new performance management system that will sharpen the standards by which our productivity is measured, and in the fourth quarter, the rollout of a tax restructuring plan that will reduce our effective tax rate going forward.

As we enter 2016, we remain focused on further strengthening our manufacturing platform and driving increased operating efficiencies through best-in-class processes. In just the first quarter, we expect to complete the expansion of our newest Mexico facility, which will increase our production capacity by 500,000 wheels, allowing us to efficiently meet elevated customer demand. We also expect to make further progress toward a 24/7 manufacturing schedule, complete the ramp-up of our Mexican finishing facility, and by year end complete the rollout our new ERP system, providing us with improved analytical tools to better manage our business.

Expanding Our Process and Product Innovation and Technology

Over the past year, we have made significant advances in the quality, selection, and innovation of our products, such as the patent of a new lighter weight wheel design. We believe this is further differentiating us from our competitors. As we look ahead, we will continue to bring innovative wheel styles to our customers through targeted investments in R&D and further enhancements to our wheel finishing capabilities.

As our business becomes increasingly complex with customers requiring more differentiated wheels, this necessitates an ever more advanced and flexible manufacturing platform. We believe our aforementioned investments, along with our strengthened management team and systems position us to capitalize on this trend and will drive unit volume growth with a more favorable mix of products.

Evaluating Opportunities for Growth and Value Creation

We ended the year with a debt-free balance sheet and $53.0 million of cash and short-term investments. Our strong balance sheet places us in an excellent position to reinvest in our business and enhance our capabilities while at the same time explore strategies to increase shareholder value through acquisitions, joint ventures, or other equity investments. As we have in the past, we continue to actively look at the range of alternatives where we can deploy our resources most effectively through both organic and inorganic growth opportunities.

Balancing Our Capital Allocation

We have remained committed to maintaining a balanced approach to capital allocation with respect to returning cash to our shareholders. In 2015, we returned $38.7 million to our shareholders through share repurchases and dividends. We also recently announced a new $50.0 million share repurchase program and began repurchasing additional shares in February 2016. We will continue to opportunistically repurchase shares while evaluating the relative attractiveness of other capital allocation alternatives.

Improving Our Investor Communication

During 2015, we significantly improved the Company's investor outreach, having met with nearly 100 current and potential institutional investors on non-deal roadshows and through presentations and meetings at numerous industry investor conferences. Our increased visibility among equity analysts was underscored by the initiation of research coverage by an additional sell-side equity analyst in 2015, adding to our already meaningful institutional research coverage. We believe that our efforts in this area are important to reaching new investors and conveying our strong investment thesis.

Moving Forward in 2016 and Beyond

Despite our progress and achievements in 2015, we believe there remains significant opportunity to grow revenue, increase profitability, and improve cash flow by actively partnering with our customers and continuing to drive efficiency through our operations.

On behalf of the management team and Board of Directors, I want to thank our employees who are at the core of our success and our loyal customers for the continued trust they place in us. I also want to thank you, our shareholders, for your support as we continue to make progress on our journey towards significant and sustainable value creation.

We look forward to continued success in 2016.

Sincerely,

Don Stebbins

President and Chief Executive Officer
