Applebee's International, Inc. Names Mike Czinege as CIO

Overland Park, Kan., April 1, 2004 - Steve Lumpkin, chief financial officer, has announced that Mike Czinege has been named to the newly created position of senior vice president and chief information officer for Applebee's International, Inc. (Nasdaq: APPB), the largest casual dining concept in the world.

Most recently, Czinege served as executive vice president of North American operations for Celerant Consulting. Prior to that, Czinege was vice president of Cap Gemini Ernst & Young (CGEY), one of the world's leading providers of consulting, technology and outsourcing services. At CGEY, Czinege served as CEO of the Telecommunications, Media and Network Outsourcing business. Czinege also has held positions as a partner with Ernst & Young where he serviced a number of large, multi-national clients, and at IBM where he was responsible for business planning of decision support software.

Czinege has nearly three decades of industry and consulting experience in the areas of manufacturing and supply chain management operations, business planning, sales and marketing, and information systems. Czinege worked and consulted in a variety of industries, including telecommunications, consumer products and durable goods, chemicals, general manufacturing and healthcare.

"Mike is a respected strategic leader, as well known for his principles and integrity as he is for his broad experience and superior results," said Lumpkin. "With his hiring, Applebee's International continues its success in attracting and retaining the best and brightest professionals from across disciplines. As a result, our leadership bench continues to grow both wider and deeper."

"Applebee's is an exciting and high-growth company that is a recognized leader in the industry," said Czinege. "I am thrilled to be part of the team that has created such a dynamic and innovative company."
