FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CARL ICAHN: "How can a guy be on eight boards and know what the hell he's doing?"

SCHAUMBURG, Ill., 2 May, 2007 " Motorola, Inc. (NYSE: MOT) today noted that CNBC's "Closing Bell" program last night (May 1, 2007) replayed a November 2006 televised interview of Carl C. Icahn in which he said the following about a director serving on multiple Boards of Directors (emphasis added):

"How can a guy be on eight boards and know what the hell he's doing? These companies are complicated and you have tremendous competition from abroad. How can somebody sit on a board - even if he's the smartest guy in the world - if he was Einstein - and understand what that company is doing?"

*Carl C. Icahn
CNBC Closing Bell, November 2006*

According to CNBC, Carl Icahn currently serves on eleven Boards of Directors. Motorola noted that Icahn is also chairman of at least four of these companies. Icahn is also currently seeking to acquire Lear Corp. and WCI Communications, Inc., where he is also seeking election to the Board of Directors.

Motorola today issued the following statement: "Motorola's Board of Directors does not believe Carl Icahn treats public company directorship with the appropriate level of seriousness and commitment. We believe Carl Icahn views directorship as a mere adjunct to his investing activity. Furthermore, we will not allow Carl Icahn to use Motorola as his self-serving platform. This is not about governance; this is about Carl Icahn's qualifications and commitment to serve on Motorola's Board.

"Time and again, our Board has expressed to our stockholders, including Carl Icahn, our willingness to identify additional, qualified independent directors who have experience, time and commitment to add to our Board who will represent the interests and views of all of our stockholders. Our Board is unanimous in its belief that Carl Icahn should not be elected to Motorola's Board and urges all stockholders to vote against him."

Motorola further noted that although Carl Icahn portrays himself as an "activist" championing the rights of stockholders, the companies where he serves on the Board of Directors (including American Railcar and XO Communications) that are rated by Institutional Shareholder Services ("ISS"), a leading proxy advisory firm, compare unfavorably to Motorola on the basis of objective metrics established by ISS to measure "good governance."

Additionally, ISS recently recommended that stockholders of American Railcar withhold their votes with respect to Carl Icahn's election to that Board. Motorola also noted that if Carl Icahn were to be elected to Motorola's Board, Motorola's corporate governance quotient (CGQ) Index Score would likely decrease due to Icahn's multitude of public company directorships.

Re-Elect Motorola's Board of Directors. Vote the WHITE Proxy Card Today.

Cautionary Note Regarding Forward Looking Statements

This press release contains "forward-looking statements" as that term is defined in the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Such forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, Motorola's outlook for sales and earnings in the second quarter of 2007 and anticipated profitability and operating cash flow for 2007. Motorola cautions the reader that the risk factors below, as well as those on pages 16 through 24 in Item 1A of Motorola's 2006 Annual Report on Form 10-K and in its other SEC filings, could cause Motorola's actual results to differ materially from those estimated or predicted in the forward-looking statements. Factors that may impact forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to: (1) the company's ability to return to profitability and increase market share in its wireless handset business; (2) the level of demand for the company's products, including products related to new technologies; (3) the company's ability to introduce new products and technologies in a timely manner; (4) the company's ability to continue generating meaningful savings from supply-chain improvements, manufacturing consolidation and other cost-reduction initiatives; (5) the uncertainty of current economic and political conditions, as well as the economic outlook for the telecommunications and broadband industries; (6) the company's ability to purchase sufficient materials, parts and components to meet customer demand; (7) unexpected negative consequences from the company's ongoing restructuring and cost-reduction activities; (8) risks related to dependence on certain key suppliers; (9) the impact on the company's performance and financial results from strategic acquisitions or divestitures, including those that may occur in the future; (10) risks related to the company's high volume of manufacturing and sales in Asia; (11) the creditworthiness of the company's customers, particularly purchasers of large infrastructure systems; (12) variability in income generated from licensing the company's intellectual property; (13) unexpected liabilities or expenses, including unfavorable outcomes to any pending or future litigation or regulatory or similar proceedings, including without limitation any relating to the Iridium project; (14) the timing and levels at which design wins become actual orders and sales; (15) the impact of foreign currency fluctuations; (16) the impact on the company from continuing hostilities in Iraq and conflict in other countries; (17) the impact on the company from ongoing consolidation in the telecommunications and broadband industries; (18) the impact of changes in governmental policies, laws or regulations; (19) the outcome of currently ongoing and future tax matters; and (20) unforeseen negative consequences from the company's outsourcing of various activities, including certain manufacturing, information technology and administrative functions. Motorola undertakes no obligation to publicly update any forward-looking statement or risk factor, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.
