Selected Risk Considerations

You may lose some or all of your investment. If the securities are not automatically redeemed prior to maturity and if the final share price of the worst performing underlying shares on the final valuation date is less than the applicable final barrier price, you will lose 1% of the stated principal amount of the securities for every 1% by which the worst performing underlying shares on the final valuation date have declined from their initial share price, regardless of the performance of the other underlying shares. There is no minimum payment at maturity on the securities, and you may lose up to all of your investment.

You will not receive any contingent coupon payment for any quarter in which the closing price of the worst performing underlying shares is less than its coupon barrier price on the related valuation date.

The securities are subject to the risks of all of the underlying shares and will be negatively affected if any of the underlying shares perform poorly, even if the other underlying shares perform well.

The return on the securities depends solely on the performance of the worst performing underlying shares, and you will not benefit in any way from the performance of the better performing underlying shares.

You will be subject to risks relating to the relationship among the underlying shares. The less correlated the underlying shares, the more likely it is that any one of the underlying shares will perform poorly over the term of the securities. All that is necessary for the securities to perform poorly is for one of the underlying shares to perform poorly; the performance of the underlying shares that are not the worst performing underlying shares is not relevant to your return on the securities at maturity or upon an earlier automatic redemption.

The securities may be automatically redeemed prior to maturity, limiting your opportunity to receive contingent coupon payments.

The securities offer downside exposure, but no upside exposure, to the underlying shares.

The securities are particularly sensitive to volatility of the underlying shares. Whether the contingent coupon will be paid, whether the securities will be automatically redeemed and whether you are repaid your principal at maturity will depend on the closing prices of the worst performing underlying shares solely on the applicable valuation dates.

The securities are subject to the credit risk of Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. and Citigroup Inc. If Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. defaults on its obligations under the securities and Citigroup Inc. defaults on its guarantee obligations, you may not receive anything owed to you under the securities.

The securities will not be listed on any securities exchange and you may not be able to sell them prior to maturity.

The estimated value of the securities on the pricing date will be less than the issue price. For more information about the estimated value of the securities, see the accompanying preliminary pricing supplement.

The value of the securities prior to maturity will fluctuate based on many unpredictable factors.

The issuer and its affiliates may have economic interests that are adverse to yours as a result of its and their affiliates' business activities.

The U.S. federal tax consequences of an investment in the securities are unclear.

The above summary of selected risks does not describe all of the risks associated with an investment in the securities. You should read the accompanying preliminary pricing supplement and product supplement for a more complete description of risks relating to the securities.
