To the Agere Team,

I have some very exciting news to share with you. Today, we announced that we will be combining with LSI Logic to create a leading storage, networking and consumer powerhouse. We're delighted to be joining forces with LSI, and this combination represents an important strategic step for both companies.

Thanks to your hard work and dedication, we have been successfully executing on our turnaround plan. We have boosted profitability in each of our business segments and enhanced our customer relationships. As a result, this year we achieved our first full-year of profitability as a public company. At the same time, we have secured a number of key design wins that are enabling us to work toward achieving the revenue growth called for in Phase 3 of our plan. Our challenge now was to look beyond Phase 3 to determine the best way to ensure that Agere continues to move forward successfully. We looked at a number of alternatives and believe that combining forces with LSI will enable us to pursue significant new opportunities while delivering more value to our customers.

LSI is a well-established, highly respected innovator in our industry with a leading presence in the storage and consumer segments. We share many of the same customers and we have highly complementary operating cultures, values and technologies.

Our resulting size and scale will create significant value for customers, shareholders and employees of both Agere and LSI. From a competitive standpoint, our collective high-performance solutions, R&D and design capabilities will significantly enhance our ability to offer a broader, more complete array of targeted applications in all of the markets we serve. The companies operate in more than 20 countries, with a combined workforce of approximately 9,100 employees, including nearly 4,300 engineers. The companies together own a substantial patent portfolio consisting of more than 10,000 issued and pending U.S. patents. We expect to complete the transaction in the first calendar quarter of 2007.

The new company will be headquartered in Milpitas, California, with a significant presence in Allentown, Pa., and various other locations worldwide. LSI President and CEO Abhi Talwalkar will serve as chief executive of the new company. The board of directors will be composed of nine members, with six being designated by LSI and three being designated by Agere.

Although the new leadership team has not been finalized, I, along with the other the leaders from both Agere and LSI, am committed to a smooth and effective transition. We will communicate information about the leadership team as decisions are made. An effective, rapid integration is critical to the success of the new company. As such, Abhi and I will lead a transition planning team and we will establish an integration team with representatives from both companies to make recommendations on how best to establish the right organizational structure to position the new company to succeed in its mission, strategy and integration objectives. This team will keep you posted as frequently as possible on that progress.

At 4 p.m. U.S. Eastern Time today, I will host an all-employee town meeting from the LVCC to introduce you to Abhi and discuss the combination further. I hope you can join us at that time, and an e-mail with full details about the town meeting will be coming your way shortly.

In addition, you can click here (URL to come) to read today's news release. We also have prepared a preliminary set of Qs&As you can read by clicking here (URL to come) and have set up a mailbox (URL to come) where you can submit your questions. We will continue to update and add to those questions over the coming months and post them on the MyAgere portal. I also encourage you to learn more about LSI by visiting its website at (URL to come).

I would like to stress that as we go forward, it is very important that all of us stay focused on the work at hand. We must continue to deliver on our commitments to our customers, partners, shareholders and fellow employees.

I am extremely proud of our achievements and I would like to personally thank each of you for the work you've done to bring Agere to this next phase in our evolution. Your continued focus and dedication will be critical to the success of the new company.

Sincerely,

Rick Clemmer
