Global Sources Details Trade Show Growth Strategy

China Sourcing Fairs Will Now Serve China's Two Primary Export Hubs

HONG KONG, June 3, 2004 - On May 31, Global Sources Ltd. (Nasdaq NM: GSOL) announced that it signed an agreement to expand its China Sourcing Fairs to Hong Kong. Beginning in 2006 Global Sources will host these shows at the AsiaWorld-Expo. Supplementing the current shows in Shanghai, which serve the Yangtze River Delta economic region, these new shows will serve the Pearl River Delta region adjacent to Hong Kong. Combined, these two regions account for over 60 percent of China's total foreign trade.

The following summarizes recent developments and future plans for Global Sources' China Sourcing Fairs:

- o October 2003: Launched the first China Sourcing Fair in Shanghai. The Electronics & Components trade show featured nearly 600 booths and more than 15,000 buyers from 106 countries. Global Sources generated over $1.3 million in revenue from this single event.
- o April 2004: Held three China Sourcing Fairs in Shanghai: Electronics & Components, Gifts & Home Products and DIY & Home Improvement. Together these shows attracted more than 38,000 buyers from 137 countries. Over 17,500 buyers attended the Electronics & Components show, a 16 percent increase over the October 2003 show, while over 20,000 buyers attended the Gifts & Home Products and DIY & Home Improvement shows. The current capacity of 2,300 booths for the three shows was sold out and revenue totaled $5.7 million.
- o October 2004: The fall versions of the Fairs are scheduled in Shanghai: Electronics & Components (October 11-13) and Gifts & Home Products and DIY & Home Improvement (October 25-27). Based on the success of the spring events, manufacturers have sold more than 90 percent of the 2,300 booths that are available. Management anticipates similar revenue to what was achieved in April.

- o 2005: Three China Sourcing Fairs are scheduled for April and another three are scheduled for October, all in Shanghai. These shows will continue to build the company's presence in its three primary industry sectors.
- o 2006: April and October China Sourcing Fairs will be launched in Hong Kong to complement the continuing Shanghai shows. Management anticipates that the Hong Kong China Sourcing Fairs will have capacity for more than 15,000 booths annually, and accordingly, the potential for greater attendance and revenue than the Shanghai Fairs.
- o Ongoing: Global Sources will continue to evaluate launching additional trade shows in other locations and in other industry segments.

Merle A. Hinrichs, Global Sources chairman and chief executive officer said: "Over the next three years, we plan to invest approximately $50 million in our Hong Kong Fairs to meet the demand for premium booth space from local, Greater China and international exporters. This geographic expansion of our China Sourcing Fairs is another big step in our strategy to enable suppliers to surround their customers and prospects and reach them with messages in print, online and face to face, at trade shows."

Hinrichs continued: "In addition to building our trade show business, our growth strategies include increasing the size of our sales organization, adding new customers, and cross-selling our products and services. We expect these actions will contribute to revenue growth, which we believe will be approximately 19 percent in 2004."
