STEPHEN ELOP, NOKIA CEO:

In the first quarter, we shifted from defining our strategy to executing our strategy. On this front, I am pleased to report that we signed our definitive agreement with Microsoft and already our product design and engineering work is well under way.

Following a solid first quarter, we expect a more challenging second quarter. However, we are encouraged by our roadmap of mobile phones and Symbian smartphones, which we will ship through the balance of the year. We are fully focused on delivering the needed accountability, speed and results to positively drive our future financial performance.

NOKIA OUTLOOK

- Nokia expects Devices & Services net sales to be between EUR 6.1 billion and EUR 6.6 billion in the second quarter 2011.
- Nokia targets its net sales in Devices & Services to be at approximately the same level in the third quarter 2011 as in the second quarter 2011, and targets its net sales in Devices & Services to be seasonally higher in the fourth quarter 2011, compared to the third quarter 2011.
- Nokia and Nokia Siemens Networks expect Nokia Siemens Networks net sales to be between EUR 3.2 billion and EUR 3.5 billion in the second quarter 2011.
- Nokia and Nokia Siemens Networks continue to target Nokia Siemens Networks net sales to grow faster than the market in 2011.
- All items relating to Nokia Siemens Networks exclude the impacts of the planned acquisition of Motorola Solutions network assets.

The outlook for Devices & Services net sales for the second quarter 2011 is based on our expectations regarding a number of factors, including:

- Receipt of approximately EUR 150 million of royalty income related to earlier periods;
- Competitive industry dynamics and our planned tactical pricing actions;
- Greater impact from the tragic events in Japan than we experienced in the first quarter 2011, particularly relating to component supply visibility for certain devices and other logistics disruptions related to suppliers located in Japan. We expect these factors and their negative impact on our mobile devices volumes to continue not only during the second quarter 2011 but also through the third quarter 2011, at least.
- Greater impact from our lack of dual-SIM devices than we experienced in the first quarter 2011; and
- A lower contribution from new products in the second quarter 2011 compared to the first quarter 2011 as we plan to start shipping the majority of our new products in the second half of the year.

Nokia Group

Nokia's first quarter 2011 net sales increased 9% to EUR 10.4 billion, compared with EUR 9.5 billion in the first quarter 2010, and decreased 18% compared with EUR 12.7 billion in the fourth quarter 2010.

Nokia's first quarter 2011 operating profit was EUR 439 million, compared with an operating profit of EUR 488 million in the first quarter 2010 and an operating profit of EUR 884 million in the fourth quarter 2010. Nokia's first quarter 2011 operating margin was 4.2%, compared with 5.1% in the first quarter 2010 and 7.0% in the fourth quarter 2010. The year-on-year decrease in Nokia's operating margin resulted from a decline in operating margins in Devices & Services and Nokia Siemens Networks. The sequential decrease in Nokia's operating margin resulted from a decline in operating margins in all reportable segments.

The following chart sets out Nokia Group's cash flow (for the periods indicated) and financial position (at the end of the periods indicated), as well as the year-on-year and sequential growth rates.

Note 1: Net cash from operating activities.

Note 2: Total cash and other liquid assets minus interest-bearing liabilities.

Year-on-year, the decrease in operating cash flow in the first quarter 2011 was due to negative net working capital impacts offset to some extent by lower income taxes paid. Sequentially, the decrease in operating cash flow in the first quarter 2011 was due to negative net working capital impacts as well as lower underlying profitability. Additionally, on a sequential basis, operating cash flow was negatively impacted by the timing of certain customer payments and value-added tax refunds, as approximately EUR 600 million of net working capital improvements were received in the fourth quarter 2010. In addition to these factors, in the first quarter 2011 we experienced cash outflows related to foreign exchange hedging activities, both operative as well as balance sheet, and this led to year-on-year and sequential declines in operating cash flow.

Both total as well as net cash and other liquid assets in the first quarter 2011 were higher compared to the first quarter 2010 due to positive overall cash generation. Sequentially, total cash and other liquid assets decreased due to repayments of short-term borrowings as well as negative overall cash generation. On a sequential basis, net cash and other liquid assets decreased due to the depreciation of certain currencies against the Euro as well as negative overall cash generation.

The following discussion of our reportable segments reflects our operational structure through March 31, 2011. As previously reported, starting April 1, 2011 we have a new operational structure, which features two distinct business units in our Devices & Services business - Smart Devices and Mobile Phones and we will present our financial information and segment discussion in line with the new organizational structure commencing with our Q2 2011 interim report.

Year-on-year, the 6% net sales increase resulted primarily from higher ASPs. Sequentially, the 17% net sales decrease reflected lower ASPs, as well as lower device volumes in most regions.

Edgar Filing: NOKIA CORP - Form 6-K

Of our total Devices & Services net sales, services contributed EUR 211 million in the first quarter 2011, compared with EUR 148 million in the first quarter 2010 and EUR 201 million in the fourth quarter 2010. Services billings in the first quarter 2011 were EUR 338 million, compared with EUR 228 million in the first quarter 2010 and EUR 352 million in the fourth quarter 2010.

In the first quarter 2011, the overall industry mobile device volumes were 374 million units, based on Nokia's preliminary estimate, representing an increase of 16% year-on-year and a decrease of 7% sequentially. Nokia's preliminary estimated mobile device market share was 29% in the first quarter 2011, down from an estimated 33% in the first quarter 2010 and an estimated 31% in the fourth quarter 2010.

Of the total industry mobile device volumes, converged mobile device industry volumes in the first quarter 2011 increased to 92.3 million units, based on Nokia's preliminary estimate, representing an increase of 68% year-on-year and 2% sequentially. Nokia's preliminary estimated share of the converged mobile device market was 26% in the first quarter 2011, compared with an estimated 41% in the first quarter 2010 and an estimated 31% in the fourth quarter 2010.

The following chart sets out our mobile device volumes for the periods indicated, as well as the year on-year and sequential growth rates, by geographic area.

Total	108.5	107.8	1%	123.7	-12%

The 1% year-on-year increase in our global mobile device volumes during the first quarter 2011 was driven primarily by an improvement in overall market conditions, offset by an intense competitive environment and tight component availability for certain products. On a sequential basis, the 12% decrease in our global mobile device volumes was primarily due to lower seasonal demand for our devices and an intense competitive environment, offset to some extent by improved component availability. We expect shortages of certain components to continue to impact our mobile device volumes at least through the second quarter and third quarters of 2011.

Average Selling Price. The following chart sets out our Devices & Services ASP for the periods indicated, as well as the year-on-year and sequential growth rates, by category.

Edgar Filing: NOKIA CORP - Form 6-K

The year-on-year 6% increase in our ASP was primarily due to converged mobile devices representing a greater proportion of our overall mobile device sales and the appreciation of certain currencies against the Euro, offset to some extent by general price erosion. On a sequential basis, the 5% decrease in our ASP was primarily driven by general price erosion, an increased proportion of sales of lower-priced converged mobile devices, converged mobile devices representing a smaller proportion of our overall mobile device sales, and foreign exchange hedging, offset to some extent by the appreciation of certain currencies against the Euro and an increased proportion of sales of higher-priced mobile phones.

The 6% year-on-year and sequential decline in our converged mobile devices ASPs was primarily driven by general price erosion and an increase in the proportion of lower-priced converged mobile devices sales during the first quarter 2011. The 9% year-on-year increase in our mobile phones ASPs was primarily driven by an increased proportion of sales of higher-priced mobile phones, offset to some extent by general price erosion. The 2% sequential decrease in our mobile phones ASPs was primarily driven by general price erosion, offset to some extent by an increased proportion of sales of higher-priced mobile phones.

Profitability. Devices & Services gross profit decreased 4% to EUR 2.1 billion, compared with EUR 2.2 billion in the first quarter 2010, and decreased 17% compared to EUR 2.5 billion in the fourth quarter 2010. The gross margin was 29.1% in the first quarter 2011, compared with 32.4% in the first quarter 2010 and 29.2% in the fourth quarter 2010. The year-on-year gross margin decline was primarily due to the appreciation of certain currencies against the Euro, as well as the absence of a positive impact from foreign exchange hedging, which improved our gross margin in the first quarter 2010. The impact of these factors was offset to some extent by an increased proportion of sales of higher margin mobile devices in the first quarter 2011, compared with the first quarter 2010. Sequentially, the gross margin decline was primarily due to general price erosion being higher than cost erosion, offset to a large extent by the smaller negative one-quarter impact from foreign exchange hedging as well as an increased proportion of sales of higher margin mobile devices in the first quarter 2011.

Devices & Services operating profit decreased 17% to EUR 690 million, compared with EUR 831 million in the first quarter 2010, and decreased 32% compared with EUR 1 018 million in the fourth quarter 2010. The operating margin was 9.7% in the first quarter 2011, compared with 12.5% in the first quarter 2010 and 12.0% in the fourth quarter 2010. The year-on-year decrease in operating profit was driven primarily by the lower gross margin. Sequentially, the decrease in operating profit was primarily due to lower net sales, offset to some extent by lower operating expenses.

We are targeting to reduce our Devices & Services operating expenses for the full year 2013, compared to the full year 2010 Devices & Services operating expenses. This reduction is expected to come from a variety of different sources and initiatives, including a reduction in the number of employees and normal personnel attrition, a reduction in the use of outsourced professionals, reductions in facility costs, and various improvements in efficiencies. Due to the transition process, generally all current employees can stay on the payroll through the end of the year 2011, even those possibly impacted by the reductions.

NAVTEQ

Net Sales. First quarter 2011 NAVTEQ net sales increased 23% year-on-year to EUR 232 million, compared with EUR 189 million in the first quarter 2010, and decreased 25% compared to EUR 309 million in the fourth quarter 2010. The year-on-year increase in net sales was primarily driven by improved sales of map licenses to mobile device customers as well as improved vehicle sales and higher navigation uptake rates in the automotive industry offset to some extent by lower personal navigation devices (PNDs) sales. Sequentially, the decrease in net sales was primarily driven by lower seasonal sales in all business segments.

Profitability. In the first quarter 2011, NAVTEQ's gross profit increased 22% to EUR 195 million, compared with EUR 160 million in the first quarter 2010, and decreased 28% compared with EUR 271 million in the fourth quarter 2010. NAVTEQ's gross margin decreased to 84.1%, compared to 84.7% in the first quarter 2010, and a gross margin of 87.7% in the fourth quarter 2010. Sequentially, the gross margin decline was due to a higher proportion of sales to lower-margin automotive and wireless customers in the first quarter 2011.

In the first quarter 2011, NAVTEQ's operating loss was EUR 62 million, compared with a EUR 77 million loss in the first quarter 2010 and a EUR 19 million loss in the fourth quarter 2010. The operating margin was -26.7% in the first quarter 2011, compared with -40.7% in the first quarter 2010 and -6.1% in the fourth quarter 2010. The year-on-year increase in NAVTEQ's operating margin was primarily due to higher net sales, offset to some extent by higher operating expenses. Sequentially, the decrease in NAVTEQ's operating margin was primarily driven by lower net sales and gross margin, offset to some extent by lower operating expenses.

Nokia Siemens Networks

Net Sales. The following chart sets out Nokia Siemens Networks net sales for the periods indicated, as well as the year-on-year and sequential growth rates, by geographic area.

Total	3 171	2 718	17%	3 961	-20%

The year-on-year 17% increase in net sales was primarily driven by growth in both the product and services businesses in most regions. The sequential 20% decrease in net sales was primarily driven by a seasonally weaker infrastructure market in the first quarter 2011. Of total Nokia Siemens Networks net sales, services contributed EUR 1.6 billion in the first quarter 2011, compared to EUR 1.3 billion in the first quarter 2010 and EUR 1.8 billion in the fourth quarter 2010.

Profitability. Nokia Siemens Networks gross profit increased 8% to EUR 847 million compared with EUR 782 million in the first quarter 2010, and decreased 19% compared with EUR 1 042 million in the fourth quarter 2010. The gross margin was 26.7% in the first quarter 2011, compared with 28.8% in the first quarter 2010 and 26.3% in the fourth quarter 2010. The lower year-on-year gross margin in the first quarter 2011 was primarily due to a continued intense pricing environment in the infrastructure market, particularly in relation to network infrastructure modernization projects. The higher sequential gross margin in the first quarter 2011 was primarily due to improved efficiency in project execution and a more favorable regional mix, somewhat offset by seasonally weaker net sales.

Nokia Siemens Networks first quarter 2011 operating loss was EUR 142 million, compared with an operating loss of EUR 226 million in the first quarter 2010 and an operating profit of EUR 1 million in the fourth quarter 2010. The operating margin was -4.5% in the first quarter 2011, compared with -8.3% in the first quarter 2010 and 0.0% in the fourth quarter 2010. The year-on-year decline in Nokia Siemens Networks operating profit was primarily due to the lower gross margin, which was offset to some extent by higher net sales. The sequential decrease in Nokia Siemens Networks operating profit was primarily due to lower net sales, offset to some extent by lower operating expenses in the first quarter 2011.

Q1 2011 OPERATING HIGHLIGHTS

Nokia/Devices & Services

- On February 11, 2011, we announced a new strategy, including changes to our leadership and operational structure designed to accelerate our speed of execution in an intensely competitive mobile products market. The main elements of our new strategy are as follows.
- Smartphones: We are forming a broad strategic partnership with Microsoft to combine our respective complementary assets and expertise with the ambition to build a new global mobile ecosystem for smartphones. Under our strategic agreement with Microsoft, the signing of which was announced on April 21, 2011, we plan to adopt, and license from Microsoft, Windows Phone as our primary smartphone platform. We expect the transition to Windows Phone as our primary smartphone platform to take about two years. During the transition, we will continue to leverage our investment in our Symbian platform for the benefit of Nokia, our customers and consumers, as well as developers.
- Mobile phones: In mobile phones, we are renewing our strategy to focus on capturing volume and value growth by leveraging our innovation and strength in developing growth markets to connect the next billion people to their first Internet and application experience. Nokia recognizes that there is a significant opportunity to bring people everywhere affordable mobile products that enable simple and efficient web browsing, as well as give access to maps and other applications and innovations.
- Next-generation disruptive technologies: Under our new strategy, MeeGo becomes an open-source, mobile operating system project. MeeGo will place increased emphasis on longer-term market exploration of next-generation devices, platforms and user experiences.
- Nokia's new strategy is supported by changes in Nokia's leadership, operational structure and approach to focus on speed, accountability and results.

- Store continued to see increased downloads of applications and content. In early April 2011 the Store reached up to 5 million downloads a day, compared with more than 4 million a day reported in January 2011, boosted by downloads on the latest Symbian devices. Increased demand for apps from the approximate 200-million-strong Symbian consumer base has seen the Ovi Store catalog grow to more than 40 000 apps, with about 1 000 added per week. This momentum has resulted in 158 developers from 41 countries now each surpassing the one million download milestone for their apps. Nokia's new monetization opportunities for developers are tailored for local markets and include integrated operator billing with 112 operators in 36 markets, more than 25 times more operator billing integrations than Nokia's nearest competitor.
