Non-GAAP Measures

Adjusted EBITDA is a non-GAAP measure which represents net income before interest income, interest expense, provision for income taxes, depreciation, amortization expense, non-cash stock compensation expense, and earn-out fair value adjustments. We believe this provides greater transparency by helping illustrate comparability between current and prior periods. Under an accounting pronouncement on business combinations, acquisition related costs are required to be expensed rather than capitalized, and changes to the fair value of earn-out payments must be recognized in earnings. Therefore, the exclusion of the earn-out fair value adjustments in the adjusted EBITDA calculation provides better comparability.

Adjusted EBITDA does not represent cash flows as defined by GAAP. We disclose adjusted EBITDA because it is a financial measure commonly used in our industry. Because adjusted EBITDA facilitates internal comparisons of our historical financial position and operating performance on a more consistent basis, we also use adjusted EBITDA in measuring performance relative to that of our competitors and in evaluating acquisition opportunities. Our management regularly uses supplemental non-GAAP financial measures internally to understand, manage and evaluate our business and make operating decisions. Adjusted EBITDA is not meant to be considered a substitute or replacement for net income as prepared in accordance with GAAP. Adjusted EBITDA may not be comparable to other similarly titled measures of other companies.

The following message was sent to Globecomm employees on August 26, 2013.

David Hershberg

Chairman and Chief Executive Officer

To: Globecomm Systems Inc. Employees

This morning, we announced that Globecomm has agreed to be acquired by Wasserstein & Co., a New York-based family of private equity funds that have invested in over 50 platform and add-on investments representing over $3 billion in enterprise value. Under the agreement, a Wasserstein & Co. fund will purchase all shares of Globecomm's common stock. A copy of the press release is attached.

We know many of you will have questions; so we have also attached a Q & A document that addresses what we hope will answer many of your questions. Any other questions you may have should be addressed to either Dave Hershberg or Keith Hall, directly.

We believe Wasserstein & Co. is an excellent partner for Globecomm, and that they will aid us in our growth endeavors. At the same time, we will be able to maintain flexibility and independence to continue to serve our government, maritime and commercial customers with the industry-leading communications solutions that they expect from Globecomm. Our headquarters will remain in Hauppauge.

We are very excited about this transaction, and believe it will provide considerable opportunities and benefits to the company, our customers, and hence our employees. We expect no changes or interruptions in fulfilling our obligations to our customers as a result of this transaction.

Until the transaction closes, Globecomm will remain a stand-alone, public company, and all the regulations and restrictions that apply to public companies will continue to apply to us until that time. When the acquisition closes, Globecomm will become a private company, i.e. our shares will no longer be publicly traded on the NASDAQ stock market.

Until the transaction closes, you should conduct business as usual. Also, please remember that you must not speak to reporters, investors or analysts without my or Keith Hall's prior explicit approval. If you are contacted, please refer the person to Julia Hanft, our General Counsel.

We will make every effort to keep you informed about developments and progress throughout this process.

Your support and efforts will be critical to the continued success of Globecomm, and I and the rest of Globecomm's management team and Board of Directors would like to thank you for your continued hard work and support.

Thanks,

Dave
