More Information

Companies hold formal annual meetings of stockholders to elect directors and to vote on other items on the agenda. A proxy statement describes the proposals presented to the stockholders for their vote, and includes information on how to vote.

Intel has approximately three million stockholders. Most stockholders vote on the proposals before the meeting. For each share of stock owned, stockholders get:

6. Stockholder proposal requesting a political contributions cost-benefit analysis report, if properly presented. The company's board of directors is recommending a vote FOR all the nominees listed, FOR proposals 2 and 3, and AGAINST proposals 4, 5 and 6. Please refer to the proxy materials for more detailed explanations of these proposals.

This year onwards, SEC rules require publicly traded companies to include the ratio of the CEO's pay to the median compensated employee's pay in the proxy statement. The median employee is determined based on the global Intel population as described in the proxy. The pay used to determine the ratio includes all the compensation elements listed in the proxy's summary compensation table.

Understanding the voting process

Starting today, you'll receive voting information along with the 2018 Proxy Statement from Broadridge, Intel's proxy mailing agent. The proxy statement, annual report, and voting information are delivered by email or U.S. mail, according to your instructions. This information outlines the voting deadlines and explains how to submit your votes. You may receive multiple sets of voting information if you hold Intel stock in multiple accounts, so votes should be submitted for each set of voting information received.
